

“
No book is really worth reading at the age of ten which is not equally (and often far more) worth reading at the age of fifty.”

Magnus Chase and the Gods of Asgard: Book 1
Rick Riordan

Ever since that terrible night two years ago when his mother told him to run, Magnus has lived on the streets of Boston, surviving by his wits, until his Uncle Randolph, a man his mother had always warned him about, tracks him down and starts rambling about Norse history and Magnus's birthright (a weapon that has been lost for thousands of years).

Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH
Robert C. O'Brien

Mrs. Frisby, a widowed mouse with four small children, must move her family to their summer quarters immediately, or face almost certain death. But her youngest son, Timothy, lies ill with pneumonia and must not be moved. Fortunately, she encounters the rats of NIMH, an extraordinary breed of highly intelligent creatures, who come up with a brilliant solution to her dilemma.

Out of My Mind
Sharon Draper

Melody is not like most people. She cannot walk or talk, but she has a photographic memory; she can remember every detail of everything she has ever experienced. She is smarter than most of the adults who try to diagnose her and smarter than her classmates in her integrated classroom - the very same classmates who dismiss her.

The Clackity
Lora Senf

Evie Von Rathe lives in Blight Harbor—the seventh-most haunted town in America—with her Aunt Desdemona, the local paranormal expert. Des doesn't have many rules except stay out of the abandoned slaughterhouse at the edge of town. But when her aunt disappears into the building, Evie goes searching for her.

Charlie and the Chocolate Factory
Roald Dahl

Charlie Bucket's wonderful adventure begins when he finds one of Mr. Willy Wonka's precious Golden Tickets and wins a whole day inside the mysterious chocolate factory. Little does he know the surprises that are in store for him and the four other lucky children who found tickets.

The Parker Inheritance
Varian Johnson

The letter waits in a book, in a box, in an attic, in an old house in Lambert, South Carolina. Candice Miller isn't sure she should read it; it's addressed to her grandmother, after all, who left Lambert in a cloud of shame. But the letter describes a young woman, an injustice that happened decades ago, a mystery enfolded the letter-writer, and the fortune that awaits the person who solves the puzzle.

The War that Saved my Life
Kimberly Brubaker Bradley

Ten-year-old Ada has never left her one-room apartment. So when her little brother Jamie is shipped out of London to escape the war, Ada doesn't waste a minute—she sneaks out to join him. So begins a new adventure of Ada, and for Susan Smith, the woman who is forced to take the two kids in.

Greenglass House
Kate Milford

It's wintertime at Greenglass House. On the first icy night of holiday vacation, out of nowhere, the guest bell rings. Then rings again. And again. Soon Milo's home is bursting with odd, secretive guests, each one bearing a strange story that is somehow connected to the rambling old house.
